Not for vegans. BEE BALM was initially developed to treat and cure psoriasis but that was just the beginning! With the help of propolis, beeswax, honey and papaya enzymes, this magic potion has successfully helped people clear up stubborn cases of psoriasis, eczema, ringworm, discoid eczema, cracked and split heels, lips and fingertips, nappy rash and even fungal infections of the nailbed and persistent cases of athletes' foot. Using BEE BALM every night helps to keep finger cuticles at bay and you can throw away your cuticle remover! Good for manicures. People even claim that it attacks crow's feet wrinkles around the eyes, so they use it as a night cream. BEE BALM can be used on all cuts and surgical wounds, to help prevent and diminish scar tissue. It has been used by surgeons for this reason, especially for Caesarian sections to restore skin lesions. Honey is also very effective (by itself) as a wound healer. Bee propolis, has a strong anti-microbial actin as does Aloe Ferox help to disinfect any wounds, cuts, grazes or longtie weepy wounds. The beeswax forms a thick, airtight covering. The papaya enzymes help to remove excess dry skin and scar tissue.

FOR BEST RESULTS: Apply BEE BALM frequently to the affected areas,

A natural treatment for all cracked and flaky skin or excessive scar tissue. The natural enzymes and Popolis in honey and Papaya together with gentle plant oils and beeswax help to restore skin.
